Kick up your heels to the sounds of two award-winning country rock superstar groups while enjoying Texas-sized food stations & libations from the various regions of the great state. This is the “can’t miss” event while in Houston!

Sawyer Brown

That excitement has been on display since the very first time Sawyer Brown stepped foot on stage in the early 1980s. More than 4,500 shows and counting. More than a million miles behind them and still seeing the highway miles click by outside their bus window. Twenty-three albums. More than 50 chart singles. CMA, ACM, and CMT awards on the shelf. To pull a line from one of the band’s enduring hits: “This is the life and times of a travelin’ band.” A traveling band, indeed. Always on the move—on the road, on stage, and in their career. When asked about what keeps him motivated on the road, lead singer Mark Miller says, “It’s playing the next show. Be grateful for where you’ve been and be excited about where you’re going.”

Little Texas

As part of the young country movement of the early '90s, Little Texas was responsible for shaking up the country music world with a new, energetic sound that fused the look and attitude of modern rock music with traditional country themes and styles, bringing a much-appreciated bolt of life into the genre. For their efforts, country fans the world over richly rewarded the band, buying up over 7 million of their albums, while critics showered them with 3 Grammy nominations plus honors from both the Academy of Country Music (Vocal Group of the Year) and the Country Music Association (Album of the Year).

The sophomore release, which has sold more than three million copies to date, spawned three No. 1 singles—“What Might Have Been,” “God Blessed Texas” and “My Love”—and captured the group’s first CMT Award, a Billboard award, a Radio & Records award and their first Grammy nomination.

Since their debut album in 1992, Little Texas has sold over 7 million albums, earned 3 Grammy nominations, won a CMA Album of the Year award and earned the title “The Hardest Working Band In Country” by playing over 300 shows a year!
